

Wedbush Securities Futures Division Announces Collaboration with RCM Alternatives
Introducing Broker Initiative; and
Thomas P. Anderson and Tom Chlada Joining RCM alternatives

Chicago, IL – July 11, 2017 – Wedbush Securities, a leading non-bank Broker Dealer and Futures Commission Merchant, announces the transition of Tom Anderson and Tom Chlada, from Wedbush Securities to RCM Alternatives (“RCM”). This transition is intended to be part of a larger collaboration with RCM on several fronts meant to further solidify the firm’s relationship with the firm, which is one of the largest independent Introducing Brokers in the futures space.

Since 2015, Tom Anderson, formerly the Head of Sales and Tom Chlada, formerly Senior Vice President at Wedbush, spearheaded the firm’s futures clearing focus in the Professional Trader Community (“PTC”). They will now make the transition to RCM, allowing for the combination of Wedbush clearing facilities and the full suite of client services at RCM, to enhance the collective client experience. This will be facilitated through specialized joint marketing efforts to clients needing those products to more effectively manage market execution, slippage, and asset class exposure.

“This further strengthens the strategic relationship we’ve had with RCM over the past several years,” states Bob Fitzsimmons, Managing Director, Head of Futures. “We look to forward our continued work with Tom Anderson and his team, as we expand our various futures product offerings.”

Bobby Schwartz, Managing Partner at RCM Alternatives says, “Adding the expertise of Mr. Anderson and Mr. Chlada to our already skilled team will expand the opportunities for our professional clients through our suite of ever improving tools and relationships, while continuing to leverage Wedbush’s many capabilities.”
